DESIRING THE PATRONAGE OF THE BREWING AND MALTING TRADES!

The following FACTS, which conclusively prove that THE BREWERS' JOURNAL is the best and most direct medium for securing the patronage of the brewing and malting trades, will appeal to your business judgment.

THE JOURNAL, established in 1876, represents the interests of lager beer and ale brewers and maltsters, and their employees.

Published in English and German, it was incorporated in 1890, the majority of the stock being owned by brewers in the United States.

Its articles on the brewing of lager beer and ale are original, practical and invaluable; its news columns faithfully and accurately record all events of interest to the trade; its advertising pages are a directory of reliable houses doing business with brewers and maltsters.

It has the largest bona fide circulation of any brewing trade paper in the world, circulating in all parts of the globe where malt liquors are brewed.

The JOURNAL'S principal offices are in New York, Chicago and London, with special correspondents in all the brewing centers throughout the world.

The General Manager of the company, A. E. J. TOVEY (an Honorary Member of the United States Brewers' Association), is now and has been for the past twenty years, Secretary of the Brewers' Association organized in 1830.

Its continuous appointment by the various trade organizations of lager beer and ale brewers for the past twenty years, with the verbatim copies of letters on the opposite page, show its influence and the close relations existing between THE BREWERS' JOURNAL and the brewing and malting trades and their representative organizations.
