PREFACE.

IN view of the serious and oppressive burdens under which the brewing trade is at present laboring, which are made more burdensome by the intense competition that has long prevailed, and is still prevalent in the brewing trade, THE BREWERS' JOURNAL fully recognizes the fact that the publication, even in classified form, of the sales of individual brewers, intensifies this competition. Having due regard to numerous requests for its discontinuance from brewers and from State and local organizations of the trade, and anticipating also a request to the same effect from the Board of Trustees of the United States Brewers' Association, we have resolved to abstain from the publication of these individual sales of brewers in classified or any other form.

For a number of years THE BREWERS' JOURNAL published, in its annual directory, the precise individual sales of every brewer in the country, but in accordance with expressed wishes of the United States Brewers' Association, discontinued the practice and adopted the system of classified sales, which it now also discontinues in deference to the wishes of its patrons.

The information furnished in "TOVEY'S OFFICIAL BREWERS' AND MALTSTERS' DIRECTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA" for 1899, is therefore confined to the names and Post Office addresses of all brewers in the United States and Canada, with the nature of their product; also a list of maltsters and statistics of the production and sales of malt liquors in the United States and foreign countries.

ACADEMY.

Young men having a good school education, diligent and of good character, will be admitted as pupils. Students will be afforded a full theoretical, analytical, practical, working and experimental course in such branches of chemistry and physics as relate directly to the science of brewing lager beer, ales and porter, in every modern development.

CONSULTING BUREAU.

A specialty will be made of the examination and analysis of beers, ales, yeast, water, malt, corn, grape sugar, glucose, syrups, and all kinds of cereals and every ingredient entering into the manufacture of malt liquors, at reasonable charges. DR. WYATT will personally wait on brewers in any part of the country, who experience any difficulty in turning out just the beer or ales their customers require, for the purpose of examining the brewery, materials, etc., and consult, advise and instruct in the brewing of all kinds of lager beer, present use, fancy, stock and pale ales.

NEW YORK, June 27th, 1884.

THE BREWERS' JOURNAL.

WRM

TO MANUFACTURERS AND OTHERS

Desiring the Patronage of the Brewing and Malting Trades!

The following FACTS, which conclusively prove that THE BREWERS' JOURNAL is the best and most direct medium for securing the patronage of the brewing and malting trades, will appeal to your business judgment.

THE JOURNAL, established in 1876, represents the interests of lager beer and ale brewers and maltsters, and their employees.

Published in English and German, it was incorporated in 1890, the majority of the stock being owned by brewers in the United States.

Its articles on the brewing of larger beer and ale are original, practical and invaluable; its news columns faithfully and accurately record all events of interest to the trade; its advertising pages are a directory of reliable houses doing business with brewers and maltsters.

It has the largest bona fide circulation of any brewing trade paper in the world, circulating in all parts of the globe where malt liquors are brewed.

The JOURNAL'S principal offices are in New York, Chicago and London, with special correspondents in all the brewing centers throughout the world.

The General Manager of the company, A. E. J. TOVEY (an Honorary Member of the United States Brewers' Association), is now and has been for the past eighteen years, Secretary of the Brewers' Association organized in 1830.

Its continuous appointment by the various trade organizations of lager beer and ale brewers for the past twenty years, with the verbatim copies of letters on the opposite page, show its influence and the close relations existing between THE BREWERS' JOURNAL and the brewing and malting trades and their representative organizations.
